

About Tracy Ahrens

It all began with writing a diary of short essays for Tracy Ahrens' own benefit in order to remember situations she experienced with her first three pets: Speckles, a Brittany spaniel; and her cats, C.D. and Desdemona.

Through her volunteer work with different humane organizations, she realized that these stories could help other pet owners develop bonds with their pets like she has and make others laugh and learn about raising their furry children.

The diary of essays grew and became Raising My Furry Children. – highlighting the fact that for most pet owners, these creatures are like their children. Today, descriptions of furry children and being a pet parent are noted in books, magazines, and newspapers across the country.

If you'd like to contact Tracy Ahrens, please e-mail her at mylittleforie@yahoo.com