

Helen Macie Osterman

Helen Osterman lives in a suburb of Chicago. She has five children and nine grandchildren.

She received a Bachelor of Nursing degree from Mercy Hospital-St. Xavier College. During her training, she spent three months at Chicago State Mental Hospital for her psychiatric rotation. Years later, she earned a Master's Degree from Northern Illinois University.

Throughout her forty-five year nursing career, she wrote articles for both nursing and medical journals, including Geriatric Nursing, Nursing Management, Orthopaedic Nursing and Nursing Spectrum. She wrote a section for Clinics in Podiatric Medicine and Surgery in 1997.

In 1997 and 1998, she published two short novels about a nurse, The Web and Things Hidden, by Vista Publishing, a nurse owned publishing company.

She is also the author of the Emma Winberry Mystery series. The Accidental Sleuth, 2007 and The Stranger in the Opera House, 2009.

Helen is a member of The American Association of University Women and The Mystery Writers of America.

Helen can be reached through her publisher Weaving Dreams Publishing or at her website: Helen Macie Osterman.